Minnewaska Area High School students and Someplace Safe staff go to Action Day at the Capitol.

STUDENTS TAKE ACTION!

On February 11, 2009, Minnewaska Area High School (MAHS) students and staff joined advocates from Someplace Safe at the Annual day to End Violence Against Women at the Minnesota State Capitol. The purpose of Action Day is to take the opportunity to speak to legislators about supporting bills and laws that assist in ending violence against women.

MAHS students met with their local legislators, Senator Joe Gimse and Representative Paul Anderson. The students spoke with them about the importance of sustaining funds to domestic violence and sexual violence programs in our state. Some students shared personal stories of how dating violence and domestic violence have impacted their lives. They also spoke to why it is important to keep violence prevention and education activities in the Minnewaska schools.

The students had the chance to ask their legislators questions about their responsibilities as leaders. MAHS junior, Anderson Claire asked, "What advice can you give us as far as how we can get people to listen to our message about violence prevention?" Rep. Paul Anderson replied, "You have to talk the talk and walk the walk. If you want people to listen and follow you, then you must practice what you preach and believe in that cause."

Students joined the Minnesota Men's Action Network Rally at 11 a.m. on the front steps of the capitol where speakers emphasized that men must align themselves with the voices and historically groundbreaking activities of women to end violence against women and children. The preliminary 2008 Femicide Report was released, naming 24 women, 7 children, and 2 family members/friends who were murdered in Minnesota by current or former partners. These are 33 real life reasons why men should take a stand and become actively involved in preventing violence against women in their communities.

At noon, the MAHS group joined the state coalitions, advocates, allies, and other students for the Action Day Rally and Memorial at the capitol rotunda. Numerous individuals addressed the crowd and spoke out against violence and abuse. Senator Bill Ingebrigstson of Alexandria and Stevens County Attorney Charles Glasrud were among these powerful speakers.

Overall, the students felt this was a great learning experience and were excited to learn what impact their voices have on others and that they do have the ability to make a difference in their community. 🏠

DIRECTOR'S CORNER

On February 18, 2009, Scott Jarvis, lead singer of Billy D. and the Crystals, emailed the following article and asked me to print it in this issue of the Response. The following is Mr. Jarvis's unedited article:

"This is in response to the article published in the Someplace Safe Fall 2008 newsletter, titled Domestic Violence Awareness Still Needed! It was stated in this article that on July 26 at Waterama in Glenwood, the band, Billy D. and the Crystals, had pulled a woman on stage and that band members had proceeded to paddle her on the buttocks with a large paddle and that as they proceeded to paddle her a second time, that she was injured despite placing her hands on her backside for protection. It goes on to state that the band was charged with fifth-degree assault and disorderly conduct by the Glenwood city prosecutor. The information that was obtained for this article is incorrect and the band, Billy D. and the Crystals was grossly misrepresented.

The female that was involved in this incident got on the stage at Waterama on her own free will and was not pulled up on stage as stated in the article. There were approximately 15 other individuals, who are not band members, on the stage as well. The individual who did paddle this woman on her buttocks is, in fact, the keyboard player's adult son, but he is not currently nor has he ever been a band member of Billy D. and the Crystals. He arrived at Waterama in a personal vehicle and did not accompany the band in their tour bus.

If there were any charges brought forth, then they were against the individual who did use the paddle on this woman. Billy D. and the Crystals were not charged with any type of crime, as the band members were not involved. As stated in the article, the paddle has since been "retired."

The band has been performing for 43 years without incident and although this unfortunate incident did occur, band members from Billy D. and the Crystals did not participate in this activity in any way. The members are husbands, fathers and grandfathers and they neither agree with nor condone this type of behavior or any type of domestic violence against women.

Someplace Safe regrets the article that was printed without fully investigating the allegations and hereby recants the article published in the Fall 2008 newsletter and apologizes for any wrongdoing against the band, Billy D. and the Crystals. "

On March 1, 2009, Scott Jarvis emailed me again requesting the following additional statement be added: "The band, Billy D. and the Crystals did not participate in the events that transpired that evening in Glenwood and in no way condones violence against women."

The purpose of the article was to acknowledge the fine work of law enforcement officers in Glenwood and Pope County, along with the increased involvement of men from Pope County through the Men's Action Meeting there, in their dedication to ending violence in Pope County. In January, 2009, both the Glenwood Police Department and the Pope County Sheriff's Office signed a Memorandum of Understanding with Someplace Safe to pursue federal funding to continue this work.

Charles Ario Donates Art

Someplace Safe's Parenting Time Center is the recipient of a unique and extraordinary donation. Charles Ario, of Dalton, MN purchased a captivating sculpture at A Center for the Arts fundraiser then donated it to Someplace Safe. Created by local artist Jeff Zachman, the kinetic sculpture hangs on the wall of the Parenting Time Center in Fergus Falls. Families utilizing our Center are intrigued by the movement of each interrelating part and comment on how extraordinary the sculpture is. One child stated "Super, I like the tornado part and the two cups." Families remark the sculpture is "fascinating", "interesting", and "really cool." We are extremely grateful to Charles Ario for his generosity in sharing a passion for the arts with those in distressful situations. From the comments elicited, it is obvious others appreciate and enjoy an artform they may not otherwise come in contact with. We hope to have it 'travel' to our other Parenting Time Center sites this year so children and adults throughout the region may experience and be impacted by its creativity.

Anyone interested in seeing the sculpture is welcome to call the Parenting Time Center at 218.739.3132 to schedule a time to do so. We are not open to walk-ins due to the confidential nature of our work. 🏠

Teen Leadership Summit & Women's Action Day

On February 10, 2009, Stevens County advocates accompanied students from Chokio-Alberta High School to the 2009 Teen Leadership Summit to End Teen Dating Violence for Program Staff and Teens, presented by MN Coalition of Battered Women and Casa de Esperanza. This event was sponsored by Verizon Wireless and the Minnesota Lynx. The day's events, which were held at the Target Center, included break-out sessions for teens and advocates, small group activities, and lots of great information for working with teens, including a panel discussion in which Diane Kittelson, Pope County advocate, was a featured speaker.

The following day, numerous Someplace Safe representatives and students from area schools attended Women's Action Day at the State Capitol. This provided an excellent opportunity for advocates and students alike to talk with their legislators about issues facing battered women and their families, share information about our agency and the services we offer, and have their voices heard in the capitol rotunda during the annual rally. District 11 Senator Bill Ingebrigtsen spoke at the rally, as did Stevens County Attorney Charles Glasrud, who read the names from the MCBW Clothesline Project, honoring the lives of the victims of lethal domestic violence from the past year. 🏠

The Story Behind Denim Day

In 1997 a teenage girl in Italy was picked up by her 45 year old driving instructor for her first lesson. He took her to an isolated location, pulled her out of the car and forcefully raped her. Despite threats that she would be killed if she told anyone, the girl reported the incident, and the case is prosecuted. The driving instructor was convicted of rape and sentenced to jail.

Months later, the perpetrator appealed the sentence, and the case made it all the way to the Italian Supreme Court. The case against the driving instructor was overturned, and the perpetrator was released. In a statement released by the Head Judge, he stated, "because the victim wore very, very tight jeans, she had to help him remove them, and by removing the jeans, it was no longer rape but consensual sex." Outraged by the verdict, the women in the Italian Parliament began what started out as a protest against the court case by wearing jeans to work. It began an annual international demonstration known as Denim Day. The wearing of jeans became an international symbol of protest against erroneous and destructive attitudes about sexual assault.

If you are interested in having your business participate in Denim Day, contact the Someplace Safe office in your area.

When is a victim of sexual assault at fault? Never. 🏠

What is Walk A Mile In Her Shoes?

There is an old saying: "You can't really understand another person's experience until you've walked a mile in their shoes." Walk a Mile in Her Shoes® asks men to literally walk one mile in women's high-heeled shoes. It's not easy walking in these shoes, but it's fun and it gets the community to talk about something that's really difficult to talk about: gender relations and sexual violence.

College students walking the mile.

It's critical to open up communication about sexual violence. While hidden away, it's immune to cure. Unfortunately, it's difficult to get people talking. People unfamiliar with it often don't even want to know it exists. It's ugly. People that have experienced it themselves want to forget about it. How do you get them talking now, so they can prevent it from happening? And after it's happened, how do you get them to talk about it so they can recover? Walk a Mile in Her Shoes® provides several opportunities to get people talking. For preventive education, it helps men better understand and appreciate women's experiences, thus changing perspectives, helping improve gender relationships and decreasing the potential for violence. For healing, it informs the community that services are available for recovery. It demonstrates that men are willing and able to be courageous partners with women in making the world a safer place. 🏠

7th Judicial District Update

DOUGLAS COUNTY MANAGER'S REPORT: Peg Riecken has recently joined our staff as a full time Domestic Violence advocate. She is a great addition to our staff.

Someplace Safe Douglas County is very pleased about hosting the 19th Annual Someplace Safe Awards Banquet. See page 5 for more information! We are very excited to have Jill Blashack Strahan, found and CEO of Tastefully Simple, as our keynote speaker. Jill is the author of "Simple Shine" and has recently become a national motivational speaker and we get to hear her first! We are looking for silent auction items for our awards banquet. The items donated will benefit the county where they were given. We would love to have groups work together filling a theme basket (baby, kid, movie, handyman, baker, gardner, wine basket, etc). We also would be pleased to have artwork, small furniture, quilts, or other items. We will need them by April 20th. Call the Douglas County office for more information at 320.762.1995.

OTTER TAIL COUNTY MANAGER'S REPORT: Someplace Safe Otter Tail Outreach received a Tastefully Simple grant to help support our outreach efforts in Parkers Prairie and the surrounding area. This means that a Someplace Safe advocate will have regular office hours in Parkers Prairie and be available for presentations to schools, community groups, churches, and professionals. Please call us if your group is interested in having us speak!

Parkers Prairie office hours are Wednesdays, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. or by appointment. Call 218.338.4646 or 800.974.3359 to set up an appointment or to request a presentation. 🏠

8th Judicial District Update

The Minnesota Office of Justice received a two-year "Grant to Encourage Arrest" from the federal Office of Violence against Women. This grant will be administered through the Minnesota Coalition of Battered Women (MCBW) in partnership with Range Women's Advocates and Someplace Safe in the 8th Judicial District. This project will work statewide with law enforcement and legal systems partners. National technical assistance and training will be provided through MCBW to create, distribute, and deliver a range of comprehensive and uniform trainings related to stalking, strangulation, and cross-jurisdictional enforcement by peace officers and prosecutors. Kathi Oxenreider began in January as the Criminal Justice Systems Professional at Someplace Safe to carry out the grant over the next two years.

Kathi will work intensively with law enforcement and prosecution agencies to review policy and procedures for arrest of domestic violence crimes. She is convening a monthly six county multidisciplinary task force to address issues of no contact order enforcement, cross jurisdictional issues, stalking, strangulation, and will provide training on emerging issues related to domestic violence. Training will be offered to participants and their departments on emerging issues related to domestic violence. Someplace Safe is grateful for the opportunity to build stronger partnerships with county system professionals in the Eight Judicial District. 🏠

Why is it Important to Read to Your Child?

Reading not only boosts an infant's speech and language development, but overall intelligence as well. When you read to your baby, you set the stage for a lifetime of literacy. Children who are read to before kindergarten learn more easily when they get there.

When reading to an infant, remember to choose small, chunky board books that your baby can easily hold onto. Choose books that have different textures, colorful pictures, or lift-the-flaps. While reading try to make it a fun and interactive experience between you and your child (reading can be a great bonding experience)! For younger children, point out different objects that you can see in the pictures. When reading to older children, make predictions of what might happen next, have your child re-read the story to you, or even make up an alternative story using the illustrations as your guide. 🏠

Ways to Make Reading a Part of Your Family's Lifestyle!

1. Turn off the TV
2. Read together with your child!
3. Go to the library
4. Start a book collection
5. Model reading of objects around you.

Example: read labels of food products and recipes daily to foster a love for reading that will help improve your child's success in the future.

Bread N' Bowls

The second annual Bread N' Bowls fundraising event is scheduled this year for Sunday, May 3, 2009 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Morris Area Elementary School cafeteria. A meal of soup, bread, beverages, and desserts donated by area businesses and places of worship will be served for $10. This includes a handmade ceramic bowl created by a Morris Area High School student, a UMM college student, or a local artist. The event is the 2nd annual fundraiser for three local community organizations: the Prairie Renaissance Cultural Association (PRCA), the Stevens County Food Shelf, and Someplace Safe. The goal of the event is to raise awareness about violence and hunger in our community while also celebrating the efforts to eliminate both. 🏠
